About the company

ARCH Global Precision was formed by a privately held equity group in 2011. The company’s focus is on acquiring companies that manufacture precision machined components and precision cutting tools and instruments. This strategy has created an environment of organic development projects and acquisitions of complementary businesses that have evolved into strong brands with strong customer bases. ARCH Global Precision locations in Michigan provide engineered precision machined components to the automotive and industrial markets while other locations produce a variety of precision cutting tools and a series of precision cutting instruments for medical and dental applications. ## Challenges

- Support multi-company within one environment with financial consolidation roll-ups.
- An ERP system which will be structured to easily implement future acquisitions.
- A system that will accommodate launch of a West coast distribution facility.
- Outdated Legacy software across the company’s holdings.

Benefits

- Software specifically for the manufacturing environment with the ability to maintain repetitive and discrete work orders simultaneously.
- Real-time shop floor reporting.
- User friendly customizable reporting capabilities to be better equipped to respond to complex data requests
- Support for an ERP system that will easily integrate and implement within the corporate structure.
- A consulting partner in Godlan that has scalability to meet growth demands.

“As a private equity backed company, one of the most important goals was to implement an ERP software solution that would not only replace our outdated Legacy software, but could provide companywide integration and reporting.”
